To the 3D-4CH Training Synergy Call Evaluation Committee

Letter of Support – "Diaspora Heritage: From Community Archives to 3D"

On behalf of the Józef Piłsudski Institute in London, we are pleased to support From Historical Maps to Interactive 3D Heritage Spaces, a practical training project proposed by Blue Point Art LTD (BPA) under the 3D-4CH Training Synergy Call.

Founded in London in 1947, the Institute preserves and provides access to historical collections relating to Poland and the Polish community abroad. We welcome the project's aim to help small community archives, diaspora collections and minority heritage organisations present their materials using accessible 3D methods.

The two-day workshops will use selected historical maps and related archival sources from our collections as a case study. Participants will learn to assess and describe sources, interpret maps spatially and link archival materials to an interactive 3D environment.

Subject to funding, availability and agreed practical arrangements, the Institute is willing to:

- Identify suitable historical maps and related archival materials for the workshops.
- Provide historical context and guidance on provenance, description and interpretation.
- Support participants during the practical source-selection exercises and advise on accurate attribution.
- Make suitable premises available for both workshop days, subject to confirmation of dates and terms.

We also welcome the planned bilingual training manual and 3D demonstrator as reusable resources for other small heritage organisations.

Access to, reproduction and publication of the Institute's archival materials will require separate agreement and compliance with applicable rights and collection procedures.

We look forward to working with BPA and the other project partners, subject to the award of funding and agreement on the arrangements.

Yours faithfully,

Anna Stefanicki
